

QUESTION:

Madeline asks, “I know that former President John F. Kennedy was a Senator, but was he also a Member of the U.S. House of Representatives? If so, what years did he serve and where was his office located?”

RESPONSE:

John F. Kennedy did serve as a Representative from the 11th Congressional district of Massachusetts in the House from 1 January 1947 to 3 January 1953. He occupied what was then called 322 Old House Office Building which currently is comprised of rooms from the current office suites of 317 Cannon House Office Building (Representative Kathy Castor of Florida’s office) and 315 Cannon House Office Building (Representative Zach Space of Ohio’s office).